

Cookie Baking with the Kids and Grandkids Over the Years

I always enjoyed making cut out sugar cookies with the kids when they were little. Some of them loved to cut them out and would stick it out for the whole batch and others would disappear after a few pans. They always came back for the frosting and loads of colored sprinkles. Wish I had pictures of my own three helping me but back then I didn't realize how fast life moved. I just seem to have pictures of the great grandkids.

In later years Rhonda, Mandy, Justine, and I have gotten together to bake a variety of Christmas cookies. This has been one of my favorite traditions.

Sorry Andy, I know you helped too sometimes but must have given up before the pictures.

I always have more pictures of Kyler and Justine because they were here while Mandy worked.
